CAUCASIAN
INSECT POWDER.

A MASS of spontaneous testimony has been received from all parts of India proving the surpassing efficacy of this powder in destroying Fleas and other noxious insects in Dogs and domestic animals. "Boon to sportsmen," "absolutely and thoroughly efficacious," "most satisfactory," "economical," "unparalleled," "admirable" and such like expletives which have been applied to it by no means exaggerate its excellence. Vide letter by "Glencairn" in the Asian of February 3, 1880. Be careful not to accept any other Powder as "the same thing." Ours is obtained from a Special Source and is endowed with an activity not approached by any other.

CASH PRICE LIST.

TREACHER and Co.'s GINGER ALE, per doz. Re. 1-8.	TREACHER and Co.'s LIME-ADE, per doz. Re. 1-8.
TREACHER and Co.'s SODA WATER, per doz. as. 12.	TREACHER and Co.'s TONIC WATER, per doz. Re. 1.
TREACHER and Co.'s LEMONDE, per doz. Re. 1.	TREACHER and Co.'s GINGERADE, per doz. Re. 1.

TREACHER and Co.'s OZO, per doz. Rs. 3, bottles included.

TREACHER'S GINGER ALE, is highly aromatic and pleasingly pungent to the palate; the various ingredients of which it is composed are proportioned to a nicety, and the utmost care and cleanliness ("as with all our Aerated Waters") are exercised in its production.

TREACHER'S LIME-ADE, is a delicious carbonated preparation of the Montserrat Lime Fruit Juice, an antiscorbutic, blood-purifying drink of superior character, ranking as a companion to our much admired Ginger Ale. It is cooling and refreshing at all times, healthful and suited to the present season, and being of full citricity and flavour is palatable and agreeable both as a medicinal agent and as a beverage.

TREACHER'S SODA AND POTASH WATERS, are by the aid of steam power charged with Gas at the greatest possible pressure, and thereby rendered sparkling and agreeable in the highest degree.

TREACHER'S TONIC WATER, is unequalled for delicacy of flavour and tonic properties, each bottle containing a definite quantity of Quinine presented in an agreeable form.

TREACHER'S LEMONADE AND GINGERADE, are as flavoured waters celebrated for their freshness and delicious taste.

TREACHER'S OZO is a delightful sparkling health-sustaining beverage, a dissipator of mental and nervous affections, and a renewer of physical power.

TREACHER'S AERATED WATER, is thoroughly impregnated with Carbonic Acid Gas, and, being free from alkali, it is well adapted for admixture with Claret and Acid Wines. Alone it drinks sharper to the palate and with greater pungency than Soda Water.

COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE

TUESDAY EVENING, JUNE 21.

As usual on mail-day a very quiet tone has been apparent in business generally, and there is nothing in the home advices to impart a more active tendency. The London stock markets show no change of any kind, and the same may be said of General Produce.

Piece-goods in Manchester come quiet, and the Liverpool Cotton market yesterday closed dull. Surats on the spot unchanged, but to arrive easier. The day's sales are estimated at 8,000 bales, of which 600 were Surats, and with the exception of a decline of 1-16d. in Americans, no change is made in spot prices. To arrive, good Dhollera with the F. G. F. clause, May-June shipment Canal, is quoted at 5d., which shows a slight loss on current prices here to-day irrespective of commission. In New York yesterday ready Mid. Uplands were unaltered at 11 1-16 cents, but September shipment had recovered from 10·52 to 10·64 cents per lb. The receipts at the U. S. ports to date give the following comparisons :—

	1881.	1880.	1879.
Two days' Receipts.....	5,000	4,600	1,100
Three days' "	8,000	8,200	2,000
Total since 1st September....	5,585,000	4,821,000	4,409,000

Exchange.—With Bar Silver at home unaltered at 51½ per oz, and nothing of an outside character to affect the market, we opened this morning steady at yesterday's closing rates. Calcutta advices, however, coming weaker, a decline of 1-32d. was established in ready bills during the afternoon, and decidedly more inclination was evinced to buy than sell. For future delivery some of the banks were comparatively free sellers, and something like 10 lacs must have been done on the basis of 1s. 7¾d. for telegraphic, and at the close there is still one seller at the rate. The general tendency, however, is weaker than it was, and an idea prevails that we have seen the highest point for a time. We quote for ready paper at the close :—

Bank Bills on demand	1s. 7 19-32d.	per rupee.
Do. telegraphic	1s. 7 9-16d.	"
Do. 3 months' sight	1s. 7 11-16d.	"
Credits, 3 " " ..	1s. 7 13-16d.	"
Documents, 3 " " ..	1s. 7 27-32d.	"
Francs, 3 " " ..	2·09½	"

On Calcutta we quote demand drafts at 1-16 per cent. premium, 60 days' sight at ⅛ per cent. discount.

Government Paper has been weaker again owing partially to lower quotations from Calcutta. The extent of business done has been small, and rates for Fours have receded to Rs. 104 to 1-16, while for Fours-and-a-half the quotation is still Rs. 111⅛

In shares the general tendency has been easier. Bank of Bombays are ¼ per cent. lower at Rs. 765. In Press Companies the only change is a decline of Rs. 10 in Colabas. Land Companies are unaltered. Spinning and Weaving Companies in a general way show no movement, but any alteration is the turn in favor of buyers.

Cotton has again been an extremely quiet market. Exporters have but few operations to cover and operate very sparingly, but sellers still hold out for about previous rates, especially for high class Cotton, which is now extremely scarce. Rs. 190 has, we hear, been paid for strict Good Dholleras, but the price is based on the wants of a few sellers here more than on the figure obtainable at home.

Seeds and Wheat are firm at previous rates, but supplies are liberal, and once June shipments are covered we may look for easier figures.

Freights are remarkably steady, all things considered. The supply of tonnage seems to be fully provided for, and there are charterers in the market for next month's loading at comparatively full rates, without being able to find steamers. For Liverpool the quotations are 37s. 6d. to 38s. 9d., but to Continental ports engagements could be made at the same money.

Piece-goods show no quotable change. The demand is still slack, and stocks are a long way in excess of current requirements. In future shipments there is not much doing, rates at home being above our currencies, irrespective of which dealers are not disposed to operate while the rains look so shy.

Coals are queit but fairly steady, sellers to arrive being almost out of the market.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 22, 1881.

A definite settlement may be expected to be arrived at shortly on the long-debated and very important question of the construction of a system of railway communication for the Southern Mahratta Country connected with the G. I. P. trunk line. Government have taken great pains to arrive at the best schemes to be adopted, and if any mistake is made, it will not be for want of having consulted and carefully considered the opinions of the best authorities as to the requirements of the country. Suggestions and opinions have been asked for and submitted from all the chief officers of the Political, Revenue, and Public Works Departments employed in the districts whose means of communication it is desired to improve, from native officials of the independent States intimately concerned, and from the Bombay Chamber of Commerce. The problem is how to open up to the best advantage the large tract of country lying between the

A TELEGRAM to the Secretary to the Government of India, Foreign Department, from Bagdad, 4th June, states :—"Favourable reports plague continue ; disease expected shortly to cease."

THE Khyber toll arrangements have been finally concluded, and the passage of trade by that route will now be easy and unimpeded on the payment of a small impost.

LIEUTENANT-COLONEL WOODTHORPE, R.E., proposes to publish some of the sketches he made at Kabul during the occupation.

THREE months' privilege leave, from the 2nd of August, has been granted to Mr. C. Hawkins, Deputy Commissioner, Amritsar. Mr. R. Clarke officiates for him. Mr. H. A. Anderson, Assistant Commissioner, Rajanpur, is transferred to Dera Ismail Khan as Judicial Assistant Commissioner, vice Captain Roberts, who has proceeded to Gujranwala as Deputy Commissioner.

MR. COLMAN MACAULAY, Officiating Secretary to the Government of Bengal, states that the changes in hospital administration introduced by Sir Ashley Eden, in accordance with the Report of the Committee on Medical Expenditure, have now been working for three years, and the results are in every way satisfactory. The expenditure has been largely reduced ; there has been a considerable increase in the number of patients treated in the different hospitals, and a decrease in the rate of mortality amongst the patients.

AT the meeting of the Town Council yesterday, the Municipal Commissioner submitted for consideration the correspondence which has passed between him and the Chief Presidency Magistrate on the question of diseased meat exposed for sale in Bombay. To guard against the evil, the Commissioner thinks it necessary that the admission of animals to the slaughter-yard at Bandora should be thoroughly supervised, and that carcasses should be subjected to careful inspection ; that the route and means of transport from the slaughter houses to the markets should be expeditious and efficient ; and that these inspection matters for himself should be regularly and strictly performed. The Chairman pointed out the necessity also of making some improvements in the present arrangements respecting the inspection and transport of meat, to prevent the possibility of diseased meat finding its way into the markets. It was eventually resolved that the Municipal Commissioner should be requested to furnish the Town Council with a draft of the amendments which he considers it is desirable to make in the sections of the Act bearing on the subject, and that in the meantime the papers now before the meeting should be circulated. With respect to a report by the Health Officer of cholera cases which have occurred in Bombay from the beginning of the year up to the 1st instant, the Commissioner remarked that the Municipal authorities were doing all in their power to suppress the disease.

THE question as to how the Waziris are to pay their fine is (the Pioneer believes) still unsettled. There is some idea of making them provide wood to rebuild Tank, or rather to restore that portion of the tumble-down old town which the Mahsud raiders burnt in January 1879. The poverty of the tribe, no doubt, helps to delay the settlement. The Mahsuds are miserably poor. As soon as our camping grounds were left by the troops, the Waziris would be seen picking up and sifting the spare grain scattered about by our men and baggage animals. Another cause of delay, perhaps, is the hope that still seems to inspire Major Macaulay of getting in the arch offender, Mashak Khan. We do not know whether the idea of levying the fine, in the shape of import duties on goods brought into our territory from the Mahsud country, has been seriously considered, but this might prove the only way out of the difficulty, though if it was adopted, the burden of payment would fall, to a great extent, on our own subjects.

THE revenue report of the Punjab has been published. It appears that the total income of the province amounted in 1879 to Rs. 3,26,37,150, as against 336 lakhs the previous year. Part of the revenue included in the above is the income from customs and salt. This is not under the local Government, but is worked direct by the Commissioner of Salt and Customs, and for the year under review it shows a deficit of no less than eighteen lakhs. All the heads of revenue administered by the local Government show a large increase, aggregating about 7½ lakhs, of which 5½ is realised from land revenue, and the remainder from increased sale of stamps. The Superintendent of Stamps "congratulates the Government" on the increased sale. In Delhi a decrease is shown from "decrease in litigation." In Gurgaon the Deputy Commissioner is "puzzled" to account for this decrease. In Umballa the decrease is owing to "greater prosperity." In Dera Ismail Khan the increase is owing to mutations of land, in Lahore to decrease of litigation, and so in Gujrat, Pindi, Ludhianah, and Jhelum. The Superintendent, however, sums up the causes of increase under two heads ; first, certain alterations in the stamp laws as to duty on small bonds ; and secondly, the impetus given to trade and enterprise by events in Afghanistan and by the pushing on of the railways.

THE Civil and Military Gazette of June 18th states that "arrangements have been made for taking the 8th King's Regiment to the cholera camp at Chunga Munga. Two companies under Captain Hope and Lieutenant Dundas were taken by special troop train last night, and the headquarters follow to-night. We regret to learn that Lieutenant Grattan was seized with cholera early yesterday morning, but latest accounts state that he is doing well. Two or three more cases amongst the men have occurred, but they were doing well, though one is a bad case. In all eleven cases have occurred since Tuesday, six of which have proved fatal."

THE Daily Telegraph has authority for stating that the Duke of Cambridge in person will command the volunteer forces on the occasion of the Royal Windsor review.

NEWS received at Vienna from Bagdad states that several obstinate battles have been fought between the Turkish forces in Asia and the insurrectionary Hamoud tribes.

THE Marquis of Huntley is spoken of as successor to Mr. Adam as Governor of the Madras Presidency. The World considers there is much to be said in favour of the appointment. "Lord Huntley has already been in India, and especially made himself acquainted with the Presidency in question ; and he is of a good age, with a progressive turn of mind."

ON Friday (May 27) Tikma Sirdar, the celebrated Tekke chief, and four other leaders of the late Turcoman resistance at Geok Tepe, arrived in St. Petersburg to personally take the oath of allegiance to the "White Czar" and acknowledge themselves Russian subjects. The Times St. Petersburg correspondent states :—"The late Commander-in-Chief of the Tekkes, Tikma Sirdar, is a man of middle height, about 50 years of age, and apparently of robust health. His swarthy, though very intelligent, face, with sharp and piercing eyes, is surrounded with a white beard. He wears a long Asiatic robe of variegated colours, a Persian sabre hung at his waist, and the ordinary Turcoman head-gear, the high conical cap of black Astrakan wool. The Tekke commander has brought his second son Ourazberdy to be educated in one of the Russian military schools. His first son was killed in the fight before the Russian trenches at Geok Tepe. The other members of the deputation are Aviz Sirdar, a young smooth-faced man, and Kholi Sirdar, an old, tall, white-bearded veteran from Merv, who, properly speaking, does not form part of the deputation, but has only accompanied it in order to see Russia and its sights, and give an account of them to his people in Merv. The deputies, who are all dressed similarly to the chief, Tikma Sirdar, except that their long gowns are of a yellowish colour, are attended by one Tekke servant, a Russian cavalry captain, and a Kirgniz Dolgit. They left Bami at the end of last month. Tikma Sirdar states that the number of Tekkes who now become Russian subjects amounts to 40,000 families, and he is reported to have also said that the Tekkes know how to prove themselves faithful to their conqueror as they have known how to fight his troops."

COMMENTING upon the Imperial Ukase annexing the Akhal Tekke country, the Novoe Vremya regards the acquisition of the Transcaspian region as some return for the cession of Kuldja, and remarks as follows :—"The Akhal Tekke oasis cannot certainly be compared in richness with the land which we lose, as Kuldja represents a rare mine of wealth, if a small area, extremely suitable for agriculture and colonization. The acquisition of the Akhal Tekke oasis is very advantageous to Russian views. Its importance is threefold—as regards the routes into Central Asia, the pacification of the country, and as affecting Russia's relations with the neighbouring Asiatic States. The route along the river Attrek, and further towards Herat and Kandahar, is the best in the event of an expedition against Eastern India. The occupation of a strong base in that direction possesses strategical significance, and must influence the relations between England and Russia. The firmer we take up a position in the direction of India the more England will yield in the Eastern Question. This requires no demonstration. The pacification of the Transcaspian region was impossible in the absence of Russian fortifications in the rear of a nomadic people. Although, generally speaking, the Turcoman country is barren and poor, its complete subjugation will increase the prosperity of the population and stimulate the fishing and naphtha industries. It likewise follows that the consolidation of our position in the Transcaspian region will establish close ties with Persia, and free her northern provinces from the frequent raids of the Turcoman robbers. Khiva, Bokhara, and other semi-barbarous Central Asian Khanates will now be finally subjected to Russia's political influence, and be partially surrounded by Russian territory."

IN the House of Commons on May 30th Mr. Whitley asked the Secretary of State for India if he would state the reasons why the present Viceroy had for the first time prohibited public preaching by Protestant missionaries in Calcutta. The Marquis of Hartington said that he had asked the Honourable Member on Friday to postpone his question. He had at the same time asked the Honourable Member whether he had any information on the subject beyond certain telegrams which had appeared in the newspapers. He understood the Honourable Member had no further information. He had on the former occasion pointed out to the Honourable Member that the statements in those telegrams did not correspond with what was contained in his question. The statement that he himself had seen was to the effect that any action which had been taken in the matter had been taken by the police under the instructions of the law authorities, and not in any way by the direction of the Viceroy of India. He had no further information on the matter, and had no reason to believe that either the Viceroy or the Government of India had taken any steps in the matter.

IN a speech at Cahors M. Gambetta expressed a sentiment which at once gave rise to the most animated comments. It was that referring to the rôle and importance of the Senate. The exact words were as follows :—"Respect the Senate. Who knows whether it may not become at a certain moment our supreme resource ?" This utterance, which all present heard distinctly, and at which many were scandalized, does not figure in the stenographic report forwarded to the papers by the Havas Agency. The Times Paris correspondent explains that the truth is that an hour after the banquet M. Gambetta sent for the reporter for that agency and asked him to strike out the inconsiderate words, uttered evidently only for the Cahorchens, and more particularly for M. Calmon, Vice-President of the Senate, who was present. M. Gambetta made the same request to the local journalists, who at once also consented to suppress the words in their reports. M. Gambetta also modified in the communications made to the Press the passage in his farewell to the Cahorchens who accompanied him to the station. He said :—"I can henceforth reckon on the future, for you have publicly promised it to me." The version of the Havas Agency is less presumptuous. These words were corrected at the station of Monsempron Libos, the first from Cahors.

IN a Parliamentary paper lately issued we find that the regiments quartered in India show in nearly every instance a much less amount of misconduct than those stationed at home or in the Colonies. In the Cavalry there is but one desertion recorded, and in the Infantry only 22. In the Cavalry the 9th Lancers have the fewest courts-martial and the 14th Hussars the fewest minor punishments, but in both respects there is but little difference between the 8th Hussars, 9th Lancers, 10th, 13th, 14th, and 15th Hussars, all of them being distinguished for good conduct. The Carabineers, although with but few minor punishments, had a high number of courts-martial, and the 3rd Hussars and 12th Lancers showed the least satisfactory return in both respects. In the Infantry the 89th is the worst regiment in India, both as regards courts-martial and summary punishments, the proportions per cent. being 8·5 and 197, respectively ; the 44th stands next as regards summary punishments and next but one as regards courts-martial ; the 1st Battalion 21st being the intermediate corps. The 2nd Battalions of the 7th, 14th, and 16th, the 43rd, 4th Battalion of the 60th, 54th, and 33rd also show an undue amount of crime. Of those regiments making the most creditable show it is noticeable that most of them were serving in the field in Afghanistan. The 1st Battalion 5th Fusiliers fills the most creditable place in the matter of courts-martial (1·1) and nearly so in that of minor punishments, the 67th being in the most honourable position in that respect. The 1st Battalions of the 6th, 17th, and 25th, the 72nd, 2nd Battalion 60th, 67th, 79th, and 92nd follow the 5th under the former head, while after the 67th come the 1st Battalion 5th, 92nd, 72nd, 1st Battalion 25th, 2nd Battalion 9th, 2nd Battalion 60th, and 51st, each with a very light return.

AN incident of the excited debate in the House of Commons, on May 30th, on the question of privilege in connection with Mr. Egan's letters, is related by Vanity Fair, which is not reported in the daily papers :—"Sir W. V. Harcourt gave it as his august opinion that a vote should be taken on the notion. Upon this Lord Randolph Churchill made some severe but not by any means discourteous remarks on the effect of Sir William's advice. Then ensued the following interchange of amenities. Sir William Vernon Harcourt, looking at Lord Randolph Churchill, and bringing down the floor of the House—'You little ass !' To which Lord Randolph not unnaturally replied—'You damned fool !' Instantly Sir William jumped up to order, with fell intentions. Mr. Labouchere, who had meantime risen, at once gave way, and members chuckled in the expectation of a breeze. But Sir William then apparently reflected that if Lord Randolph might be an ass he himself might be a fool, and he sat down again. Once more did Mr. Labouchere rise ; but then Sir William, having presumably reflected on the difference between a fool and an ass, again rose to order. Again Mr. Labouchere—anxious, no doubt, not to spoil sport —sat down. But again apparently Sir William reflected that if Lord Randolph might conceivably be little, he, Sir William, might conceivably be damned ; and so, after remaining at the table saying nothing for a space, he finally resumed his seat with the proud consciousness of having added some new and highly useful terms to the vocabulary of Parliamentary language."

THE claim to recognition as one of the most important competitions at Wimbledon which has long been made on behalf of the Grand Aggregate Competition will be admitted this year in the prize arrangements. It was suggested that the importance of the Grand Aggregate would be best marked by awarding badges to the winners ; but the Council were averse to any further multiplication of badges, and declined the suggestion. It came up again, however, in another form. Lieut.-Colonel the Hon. C. L. Lindsay having, in connection with the St. George's Vase Committee, undertaken to provide the necessary funds for the design, the Council have accepted the offer, and badges will therefore be awarded at the next Wimbledon meeting. The entries for the Queen's and St. George's Prizes exhibit the same tendency this year towards decrease in the former and increase in the latter, which has been apparent during the last two or three years. The post entries will, to some extent, modify the present figures, but they are sufficiently ascertained to show that a slight reduction will be observed in the entries in the Queen's Prize and a small increase in these for the St. George's Vase.

THE Americans are naturally much elated at the success of Iroquois. "The Derby," says the New York Herald proudly, "is the greatest race in the world ; it has been contested by the greatest horses ever known, and that it has now been won by an American racer may well justify reasonable elation," and the Herald seems to think that it is within the limits of that "reasonable elation" to erect a bronze statue of the first American winner of the Derby in the Central Park. The Pall Mall Gazette remarks :—Iroquois, like the nation he represents, has sprung from English stock, and Englishmen can only rejoice that the breed improves rather than degenerates in the Western world. Mr. White, the American Minister at Berlin, acknowledged on Wednesday that Great Britain had been "the past parent of his country and its institutions," but he said he saw signs that "Germany was likely to become its future mother." These signs are to be found in the emigration statistics which are known and read of all men, 33 per cent. of all immigrants landing at New York last month being of German descent. Whoever may be the "future mother" of the United States, there is no doubt that the "past parent" of Iroquois was a well-known English sire ; and although we shall not rear statues to his honour in our parks, the triumph of his progeny at Epsom will excite no dissatisfaction in the United Kingdom.

OPENING OF A NEW HIGH SCHOOL AT JOONAGADH.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE ceremony of opening the fine new building of the Bahadoor Khanji High School at Joonagadh was performed on the 14th of June in the presence of :—His Highness Sir Mohobut Khanji, K.C.S.I., Nawab of Joonagadh ; Prince Bahadoor Khanji ; Colonel Barton, Mrs. Barton, and Mrs. Fordyce ; Mr. S. V. Patvardhan, acting Educational Inspector, N. D. ; Mr. Dayabhay Motiram Jahagirdar, Head Master ; Vazir Baha-ood-din, Dewan Saheb Hindi, Councellor Narsing Prasad, Naib Dewan Bapalal Maneklal, Banji Parbhudas, all the heads of departments from the Durbar, and others.

Order was well observed, and everything passed off satisfactorily according to the programme.

His Highness the Nawab Saheb and Colonel Barton arrived punctually at 5-45 p.m., under a salute 15 and 11 guns, respectively. The road was lined with the Sowars.

The Naib Dewan commenced the proceedings by reading the following address on behalf of His Highness the Nawab Saheb :—Ladies, Colonel Barton, and gentlemen,—I am instructed by His Highness the Nawab Saheb to address you a few words. You are well aware, ladies and gentlemen, of the object that has brought us together here this evening. The ceremony which is going to be performed is interesting, and the grand building to be opened will prove one of the most useful institutions of the State, and, therefore, we must all admit that this day will be a red-letter day in the annals of Joonagadh. Saurashtra boasts of a good many historical and useful buildings, and I hope this one in which we have assembled to-day will make an addition to them. We all know the value of Western education, and I can say, without the fear of contradiction, that its importance has begun to be felt in every part of this Province. The very fact of there having been high schools at the principal cities of Kattyawar, nearly every one of which is named after Mr. Dayabhai, the worthy Head Master of our High School, will give you a short epitome of the introduction and progress of English education in Joonagadh. I need not therefore tax your patience on that subject. I am desired by His Highness the Nawab Saheb to express publicly great satisfaction at the skill and energy which the State Engineer, Mr. Khanji, has evinced in his work. The building itself testifies to his competence, and when we take into consideration the fact of its speedy completion we cannot but say that it reflects great credit upon him. In conclusion, let me thank you, ladies and gentlemen, on behalf of H. H. the Nawab Saheb for the trouble you have kindly taken in coming down to this distant place and undergoing every sort of inconvenience which one is likely to experience in travelling at this season. On behalf of H. H. the Nawab Saheb I have now to respectfully request Colonel Barton to declare this new building of the Bahadoor Khanji High School.

The Head Master, Mr. Jahagirdar, gave a short history of English education in Joonagadh, and was followed by the Educational Inspector, Mr. Patvardhan, who dwelt upon the progress of education. The Durbar Engineer, Mr. Khanji Makan, read a short description of the architecture, &c., of the new building. After this was over some pupils of the High School recited verses specially composed for the occasion.

Colonel Barton afterwards declared the new building open for the pupils of the Bahadoor Khanji High School. Colonel Barton said :—Your Highness, Ladies and gentlemen,—I should indeed be ungrateful if I have had much pleasure in performing the ceremony of opening educational institutions at Bhavnagar, Dhrangadra, and Palitana, but none of them have given me greater pleasure than the present one. (Applause.) I am sorry that Major Wodehouse, who laid the foundation stone of this building, has not been able to be present here to witness this interesting ceremony. When, three years ago, I stood upon this place I had to describe the building in its foundation, and circumstances over which there was apparently no control allowed no progress to be made till the last year, when the work was firmly taken in hand, and we are all very much delighted to see it completed in all its most splendid style, which reflects great credit on Mr. Khanji, the Architect. (Applause.) I must tell you, gentlemen, that His Highness has not built only this one High School, but has liberally provided funds to build twelve Schools in Kattywar ; the first was built at Rajkot and the second building we now see before us in his capital, which clearly testifies to his munificence and public spirit in the management of the State. The promises are not quite sure, your Highness, that you will continue to adorn your capital with equally splendid and useful public marks, and in course of time will beat Bhavnagar in that respect. Mr. Patvardhan (the Acting Educational Inspector, N. D.), the comparison I have made as regards the progress of education in this State with that of the Ahmedabad Zilla is not fair. There the British Government had introduced educational institutions many years previous to their establishment in Kattywar, the promise of which fact, we are sufficiently advanced in Kattywar, and in Junagadh particularly. (Loud applause.) But I forgot to tell your Highness one thing in connection with the Bahadoor Khanji School, and that is with reference to a gymnasium. I am quite sure that the Head Master, Mr. Dayabhai, has taken much pains to improve the intellectual capabilities of the boys attending the school, and he appears to be a very good person to induce his pupils to follow his example, but he should also give the boys gymnastic exercises, so that they may receive instruction for the body as well for the mind. Muscular strength, we all know, is very essential to the development of mind, and the gymnastic instruction should be given to the boys immediately after they are admitted in this building.

At the close of the ceremony, pan-supari and uttar were distributed as usual, and three cheers were given for Colonel Barton, who proposed three cheers for His Highness the Nawab Saheb also. The durbar was then dispersed.

SMALL CAUSE COURT.

RUSTOMJEE CURSETJEE SHROFF VS. THE BRITISH INDIA STEAM NAVIGATION COMPANY.

THIS case was yesterday disposed of by Mr. Spencer, the Second Judge. Rustomjee Cursetjee Shroff sued to recover from the B. I. S. N. Co. the value of 18⅔ dozen flasks of gin part of a consignment of 149 cases shipped at Bombay on board the steamer Malda for conveyance to Goa. The plaintiff purchased last September a number of casks of gin, which were then in the Port Trust bonded warehouse, where they were examined by the plaintiff and shipped to Goa on board the Malda bound for Calcutta. Owing apparently to defective packing, the bottles in two cases, which had not their full number of flasks, were broken before reaching the ships. This was stated in the bill of lading. On account of the shallowness of the Goa harbour the vessel had to anchor about seven or eight miles out, in consequence of which the boats of the consignees were employed to take the cargo on shore, but since in this case no such boats appeared, the defendants took upon themselves to discharge the cases at the risk of the plaintiff, as is stated in the bill of lading. It appears that after the cases were filled in the Custom House it was discovered that several of them had been broken open and emptied. The plaintiff himself was a passenger in the vessel, and said that he saw the cases were intact when they were taken from the vessel. The Judge being of opinion that the cases were broken open during the transit from the vessel to the Custom House at Panjim, said that the defendants were absolved from any liability for the loss by the clause in the bill of lading under which the goods were shipped. Judgment was accordingly delivered in favour of the B. I. S. N. Company.

HIGH COURT—JUNE 21.

(Before the Hon'ble Sir Charles Sargent.)

THE following, among other short causes, were heard before his Lordship :—

PURMANADAS BRUGWANDAS VS. JOOSUB JAMAL AND OTHERS.

Mr. Wagle, instructed by Messrs. Shapurjee and Thakurdass, on behalf of the plaintiff, applied for a postponement on the ground that the plaintiff was dead, and that the plaint and summons would have to be amended. The application was granted.

DOSSA KIRPAL VS. NANJEE KHATAO AND ANOTHER.

Mr. Wagle, instructed by Messrs. Tobin and Boughton, for the plaintiff, said that the suit was brought to recover Rs. 3,873 on an account adjusted and signed on the 14th November, 1879. The claim was proved, and the Court gave a decree for the amount claimed, with interest and costs.

WONG SUE CHUEN VS. DORABJEE BYRAMJEE FATAKIA.

Mr. Dhairyavan, instructed by Messrs. Hore, Conroy, and Brown, for the plaintiff, said this was a suit on a judgment of the Court of Hongkong for dirs. 864. The defendant, who appeared in person, said he knew nothing about the claim, and that he would communicate with his China agent in the matter. A decree was given for the plaintiff for Rs. 1,554, with costs and interest on the judgment.

FAZUL NENSEY VS. KHAKEE ARUT AND OTHERS.

Mr. Jardine, instructed by Mr. Macfarlane, appeared for the plaintiff. The first defendant, who appeared in person, said the plaintiff had agreed last Saturday to receive Rs. 1,100 in full payment of the whole claim and costs, but that when the money was sent him, he declined to receive it. The plaintiff said there was a dispute about his costs, and that he declined to receive anything less than the whole amount of his claim. A decree was given for plaintiff for Rs. 1,000, with interest and costs.

JOSEPH FREDERICK ALDRIDGE AND OTHERS VS. GOVINDJEE GOPALJEE AND OTHERS.

Mr. Vicajee, instructed by Messrs. Ardasir and Hormusjee, for the plaintiffs, said the suit was brought to recover Rs. 4,060 due on eight bills of exchange which were accepted by the defendants, but were dishonoured on the due date. The presentment of the bills and their non-payment being proved, his Lordship gave a decree for the plaintiffs for the amount claimed, with interest and costs. There was no appearance for the defendants.

(Before the Hon'ble Mr. Justice WEST.)

SIR ALBERT J. D. SASSOON AND ANOTHER VS. SAVAKCHUND PREMJEE AND ANOTHER.

Mr. Russell, instructed by Messrs. Hore, Conroy, and Brown, for the plaintiffs, said the suit was brought to recover money due on drafts received with respect to consignments of cotton made to England by the defendant through the plaintiffs' firm at Bombay. There was no appearance for the defendant, against whom a decree was given for Rs. 1,943, with interest and costs, and Rs. 10 notarial charges.

ALLEGED REWARD FOR A SCHEME OF DURLICITY.

NUSSERWANJEE ARDASIR WADIA VS. MULJEE HUNSRAJ.

The Advocate-General, instructed by Messrs. Hearn, Cleveland, and Little, appeared for the plaintiff ; and Mr. Lang, instructed by Mr. Sayani, for the defendant. The plaintiff claimed to recover Rs. 3,500, being the amount due on two promissory notes made by the defendant on the 7th May, 1878, and 12th April, 1879.

Mr. Lang applied for a transfer of the case to the long causes list on the ground that the defendant had filed a written statement. The suit was instituted on two promissory notes, the signatures of which were given to the defendant by the plaintiff as presents for services rendered. In 1877 and 1878 defendant was employed as a broker by the plaintiff to arrange compromises of certain proceedings then pending in the Insolvency Court, and by Dhurumsey and the liquidators of the East India Bank. The plaintiff, who was the confidential agent and adviser of the liquidators, principally managed the proceedings on their behalf, and promised to pay defendant Rs. 10,000 in the event of the compromises being effected. The defendant said that, after great exertions, he succeeded in effecting such compromises, under which Kessowjee Naik was alleged to have agreed to pay plaintiff and the liquidators Rs. 1,50,000, and to give up all his shares in the East India Bank. The plaintiff, it was alleged, retained for his own use out of the 1,00,000 Rs. 10,000. In the petition for the removal of the li this; for his good intentions we recognize in him a great statesman, a wonderful orator, and a largely endowed man—one of the notabilities of the age, and one of the first men of the British Empire. He has lately introduced a bill into the House of Commons, and it has been read a second time. Even that shows his good intentions towards us, and it becomes us, therefore, to seriously consider what is the character of that bill—whether it will be likely to serve us or otherwise; and if we find it will be likely to do us a substantial service we are bound to be grateful to him.

At Duncannon, county Wexford, yesterday, a demonstration in connection with the land question was held. Canon Doyle, P. P., presided, and strongly denounced Mr. Gladstone, and Mr. Bright, said that the Land Bill in its present shape was one of the greatest shams ever passed through the House of Commons.

A special meeting of the National Land League of Great Britain was held on the 27th ult. in the Conference Room of the House of Commons. Mr. Justin McCarthy, M.P., president, occupied the chair. The following resolution was adopted:—"That the vast increase of evictions in Ireland, and the full employment of the forces of the Crown in carrying out those evictions, together with the arrest of the prominent leaders of the Land League, prove that the Coercion Acts are being employed by the Ministry to assist the landlords in crushing the Irish tenantry, and we call upon the Irishmen in England and Scotland, as well as Englishmen who sympathize with the sufferings of the oppressed, to take steps to evoke public opinion in England and Scotland by a series of peaceful demonstrations." It was further resolved to hold a demonstration in Hyde Park on the Sunday following when resolutions were to be proposed declaring the Government responsible for the condition of Ireland, calling for the stoppage of evictions, the resignation or dismissal of Mr. Forster, and the adoption of a national petition in favour of those objects.

DISSENSIONS AMONGST THE LAND LEAGUERS.

THE letter of Mr. Egan, the treasurer of the Land League, in which he denounced Mr. O'Connor Power and Mr. M'Coan for voting for the second reading of the Land Bill, has led to strong dissension among the leading members of the League, and was on Monday (May 30) brought before the House of Commons as a breach of privilege by Mr. Mitchell-Henry, who in his speech intimated that Mr. Egan had shaken his fist in the face of a member in the lobby. The debate was of a personal and heated character. Mr. Gladstone, who admitted that the letter was a breach of privilege, challenged an expression of opinion from Mr. Parnell upon it; but the challenge was not accepted, and eventually Mr. Henry's motion was withdrawn. Mr. Egan was in the "distinguished strangers" gallery during the debate. Mr. O'Connor Power and Mr. M'Coan have replied to Mr. Egan's letter. The former says of Mr. Egan:—

Mr. Egan, of Paris, from his retreat in the Hotel Brigton, launches against me most venomous epithets, and employs the comparision of "blackleg on a racourse" to describe my public conduct. Allow me to say that I am my judgment the real "blackleg" is the cad who bolts with the stakes, and the real coward is he who keeps out of the fight which he himself has provoked, and who, skulking either in London or Paris, tries to hide his own poltroonery by impugning the courage of others. After much patient forbearance, I now tell my insolent libeller, and his masked abettors who ordered the publication of his frothy effusion, that, as far as I am concerned, the rule of arrogant dictation must cease.

The hon. member goes on to state that in voting for the second reading of the bill, he was carrying out the instructions of his constituents; he has the heartiest sympathy with all honest and straightforward Land Leaguers, but he says:—

I warn my countrymen that if they allow themselves to be goaded into unarmed insurrection by the screaming of hired demagogues, who have already notoriously shown the "white feather," they will be abandoned and betrayed in the hour of trial. These white-livered filibusters of the tongue who like domestic bullies, browbeat their own race, have not a spark of fight in them.

Mr. M'Coan, in the course of his letter, says:—

Mr. Egan's delicate, not to say equivocal, position, as keeper of the League's moneybags, should have made him chary of epithets of "blackleg" at honest men, since he, of all men connected with the agitation, is open to damaging tu quoques of this kind; but he is safe from such personal retort from me.

After explaining his reason for voting for the bill, Mr. M'Coan writes as follows:—

Such is my own answer to the charge of political dishonesty which Mr. Egan at a safe distance launches against myself and other men of the highest character in the Irish party. Need I tell the open secret of his wrath? Notoriously it is simply this, that, while we "blacklegs" and "trimmers" honestly follow what we know to be the wishes of our constituents, and desire by salutary reforms to restore peace and prosperity to Ireland, Mr. Egan, and some others with him—for reasons of which I will not suggest an explanation—wish for no Land Bill at all, but desire that agitation should go on on lines and to lengths with which as yet no wise man can sympathize.

Mr. Egan has written a long rejoinder to the above letters. He says Mr. M'Coan and Mr. O'Connor Power have come over to raise a false issue in representing that he denounced them for voting for the second reading of the Land Bill. He denounced them, he says, for breaking faith with their colleagues of the active party. He then observes:—

I may dismiss Mr. M'Coan by saying that in Irish politics he is nobody. His first entry on the stage was when, last February twelve months, he presented to me, in the office of my firm at Store-street, a letter of introduction from, I think, Mr. Biggar, asking me to introduce Mr. M'Coan to the constituency of Drogheda, which I did. Mr. Kette, Mr. T. D. Sullivan, and I myself went to Drogheda again and again, at considerable inconvenience and personal expense, to support his candidature. He was defeated there chiefly because every one was asking who the d——l M'Coan was, and no one could give a satisfactory answer. In the scarcity of candidates at the general election he was taken up as a candidate for Wicklow simply on the strength of his Drogheda contest. He was supported by Mr. Parnell and by all the friends of the League, and returned by a majority of seven votes. In face of this Mr. M'Coan now thinks he can "rat," and that he can get elected for Wicklow in spite of the Land League. Well, I repeat, we will see.

Turning to Mr. O'Connor Power, Mr. Egan quotes the remarks about the "cad who bolts with the stakes" and the "screaming of hired demagogues," and replies as follows:—

No one knows better than Mr. O'Connor Power that the insinuations which he conveys make up from beginning to end one huge falsehood. Mr. Power knows but too well—because he has had very substantial experience of the fact—that I have been all my life expending money upon the national cause in some shape or other—the money which I honestly worked for and honestly earned in my business; and I never pocketed one penny by politics, and I never intended—and, thank God! I don't require to do so; while he has lived all his life on politics, either as "a screaming hired demagogue" (it is unnecessary to state what he preached) or in sponging upon his political friends; and when it suited his vile selfish interest to do so, he did not hesitate to kick over the ladder by which he mounted to his present position, and turn upon his former paymasters.

The Pall Mall Gazette remarks:—The split in the Land League which Mr. Pat Egan has provoked by his dictatorial letter to Mr. Brennan, in which he accused the reasonable members of the Irish party of being trimmers and blacklegs promises to bring matters to a crisis. Mr. O'Connor Power would have shown more wisdom if he had refrained from calling his assailant "a cad who bolts with the stakes," and a "white-livered filibuster," but the epithets testify to the bitterness of the quarrel which has broken out over the Land Bill in the councils of the Land League. The Dublin papers, it will be seen, are calling out for another national convention, to decide whether the irreconcileable seventeen or the eighty-six other Irish members in the House of Commons really represent the wishes of the Irish people. It is very significant that the party of reckless hostility to the bill is led by the treasurer of the League. Now, the funds of the League are chiefly contributed across the Atlantic, for the avowed purpose of turning the agrarian movement in Ireland to account for Socialistic purposes in America. The Irish World gave the League very sharp notice last week that, if it accepted any Land Bill which merely redressed the wrongs of the tenant-farmers of Ireland, instead of carrying on war à outrance against the very principle of property in land, it should have no more cash from America. Mr. Pat Egan appears to have taken the hint. But what will the Irish farmers and the Irish priests think of a policy which deliberately sacrifices their interests to the furtherance of an attack upon the institution of property all over the world?

MR. DILLON AND THE SPEAKER.

THE following correspondence has passed between Mr. Dillon, M. P., and the Speaker of the House of Commons:—

Kilmainham Gaol, 20th May, 1881.

"Sir,—I desire to inform you that I am forcibly detained in this prison under a warrant signed by the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland. I have not broken the law, nor am I charged with any crime. I represent one of the largest agricultural constituencies in Ireland. My constituents are vitally interested in a measure now before the House of Commons—the Land Law (Ireland) Bill; and at the time of my arrest I had arranged to leave for London in a few days, in order to bring the views of my constituents on this measure (which I had taken particular pains to collect) under the notice of the House; and also for the purpose of bringing to the notice of the House of Commons certain other matters touching most nearly the maintenance of law and order in this country, and I had hoped that by directing the attention of the House in good time to these matters, I might have been the means of saving the lives of some of her Majesty's subjects. Will you communicate the contents of this letter to the House? I am anxious to know whether it is not an interference with my privilege as a member of Parliament to detain me here forcibly and so prevent me from representing the interests of my constituents. Further, I have to state that on Tuesday last the Chief Secretary for Ireland, in explaining the reasons for my detention, read out an inaccurate and imperfect report of a speech spoken by me on the 27th of April. I wish to have an opportunity of stating to the House what I did say, as I feel convinced that what I said on April 27th does not afford any justification for my arrest.—I have, &c.,

JOHN DILLON.

"Member of Parliament for the co. of Tiperary.
"To Mr. Speaker, House of Commons."
The Speaker, in reply, wrote as follows—

"House of Commons, May 30.

"Sir,—I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 20th inst. In reply, I have to inform you that your arrest and imprisonment in the gaol of Kilmainham were communicated to the House of Commons on the 4th inst., by the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, in pursuance of the Act for the Better Protection of Person and Property in Ireland. As your letter does not relate to any matters of privilege, I have not thought it necessary to lay it before the House.—Believe me, &c.

"J. Dillon, Esq., M. P. H. BRAND,

THE LOSS OF THE DOTEREL.

THE following has been received by the Secretary of the Admiralty from Commander Evans, of Her Majesty's late ship Doterel, who arrived in London on Saturday evening, May 28:—

"P. S. N. Co.'s ship Britania, Bordeaux, May 27, 1881.

"Sir,—It is with very great regret I have to report the melancholy disaster to Her Majesty's ship Doterel, under my command, which occurred at 5 a. m., April 26 last, at Sandy Point, and which I telegraphed to you from Montevideo on the 3d inst. We left Elizabeth Island shortly after 6 the same morning, steaming 60 revolutions with the starboard wing boiler, and anchored at Sandy Point, about 8-30 a.m. in 8¼ fathoms of water. When I had finished with the engines, I sent for Mr. Ord, the engineer (the chief engineer being in arrest), and told him that I had finished with the engines, to go on condensing and prepare for coaling.

"I then remained on deck a short time talking to the coal contractor and captain of the port. About 9 a. m. I went below to breakfast, and at about 9-30 when I had finished my breakfast, I again sent for Mr. Ord and told him to send some one to overhaul the steam-cutter's engine, and to be sure that there was no delay about coaling. I then sent for the senior lieutenant and told him to go to divisions when ready, as I was going to wash and dress.

"I then went into my after-cabin, and while in my bath heard a report as if a gun had gone off. I immediately went into the fore-cabin, the starboard side, and on looking forward saw that the ship's side was burst open in the starboard gangway, and that the upper deck in that part was forced up, twisted, and wrenched about and the water rushing in, the ship at once heeling over to starboard.

"A short time after the first explosion (about 20 or 30 seconds, as far as I can judge) there was another and much more violent explosion, shaking the ship heavily, and which I am convinced was the explosion of the fore magazine. Everything now became darkened with smoke and débris, and I felt that the ship was sinking rapidly. On turning round I saw the sentry getting out of my embrasure port. I then told my steward, who was close to me, to jump out; I then got out myself, jumped into the water, and caught hold of some wreckage. I think I must have been sucked down by the ship, as I do not recollect anything more until I noticed that the ship had disappeared, the water covered with wreckage and a few men clinging to it, and boats coming to our rescue.

"I do not think it could have been more than three minutes from the first explosion until the ship sank.

"The explosion was so sudden and destructive that it was quite impossible to lower any boats, even had there been any one to do so, the few that escaped being abaft the mainmast and saved themselves by jumping overboard. I fancy the greater number must have been killed by the explosion and falling débris as I did not hear a cry or groan.

"As regards the first explosion, which occurred in the starboard gangway, I think it may have been caused by the bursting of the boiler. As before we could condense good water, it was necessary to brine the boiler well on account of the mineral oil used in the cylinders, the ship having surface condensers, it is possible that the water may have been allowed to get too low in the boiler, the crowns of the furnaces exposed, and on cold water being pumped in the boiler burst.

"If either of these circumstances occurred I am then at a loss to account for the first explosion, as there are no combustibles stowed in the starboard gangway, and there is little or no doubt that the shell-room, Nordenfelt, Gatling, and gun-cotton magazines did not explode, all of which were abaft the mainmast.

"As regards the fore-magazine, it had been opened the previous day shortly before noon, two cases of charges for the seven-pounder being taken out for short practice and the magazine closed.

"It was opened again at about 4 p.m. by the gunner, who returned the two cases and closed the magazine, and I must say he was a most careful and trustworthy officer. I do not think it possible that any fire could have existed below without an immediate alarm being given, as the cooks of the messes had been on the lower deck for the last 20 minutes clearing up the deck for inspection, the arms had been returned, and we were about to go to divisions.

"The fore-magazine is on the port side, forward, a little abaft the foremast, and the damage done by the first explosion was in the starboard gangway, a little before the mainmast. I do not think it possible that the first explosion could have emanated from the magazine. I left Lieutenant Stokes at Sandypoint in charge of the wreck and the bodies, and that might come to the surface, and also to employ a diver who happened to be there about a wreck, and, if possible, to obtain a clue to the disaster, and to remain until he received further instructions.

"Three bodies were discovered and buried on the day of the disaster—namely, Blackmore, chief boatswain's mate; Nicholls, able seaman; and Hayes, ordinary seaman. Owing to the suddenness of this disaster no records of the ship were saved. Every kindness and attention was shown to us by the authorities and inhabitants of Sandy-point. I regret that I am not able to give a more satisfactory and definite explanation of this disaster which to me is a mystery.

"I have the honour to be, Sir, your obedient servant,

"R. EVANS, Commander."

Commander Evans left the Britannia at Bordeaux, travelled thence by the mail on Friday afternoon, and arrived at Charing-cross at 6-45 on Saturday evening. A Court-martial will shortly take place, and in view of the investigation the Admiralty authorities have already collected evidence as to the construction of the vessel and her condition on leaving England. Before the inquiry is opened time will be given for the arrival of such information as Lieutenant Stokes, with the aid of the divers, may be enabled to furnish.—Times.

THE ASSAULT ON LORD EDWARD THYNNE.

ON May 31, at the Petty Sessions Court, Salisbury, the Marquis Townshend, Colonel Henry Nepean, and Mr. Francis Ellis surrendered to their bail on the charge of assaulting Lord Edward Thynne, at Laverstock, on Tuesday week. According to the statement made before the magistrate's clerk, Lord Edward was proceeding from Salisbury to Laverstock in a pony carriage when the three defendants met him, and one who said he was the Marquis Townshend attacked him striking him on the head with a bludgeon, saying as he did so, "is that enough?" Colonel Nepean held the horse while the assault was being committed, and the other defendant used encouraging observations, but did not otherwise interfere.—Mr. Powning appeared for the prosecution; Mr. Tattock defended the Marquis Townshend, and Mr. Nodder appeared for Colonel Nepean and Mr. Ellis.—Mr. Powning addressed the bench on behalf of the prosecution, detailed the circumstances of the assault, and condemned it as a cowardly attack by three young men upon an old man of seventy-five years. He was at a total loss to conceive what possible defence there could be, unless it was in connection with circumstances that occurred many years ago, and these circumstances he ventured to suggest were no excuse for the assault which had been committed. He would ask the bench to deal with the case in the ordinary way, and after hearing the evidence to commit the defendants to take their trial. The first witness called was Lord Edward Thynne, who said he resided at Laverstock, near Salisbury. On the 24th of May, he was driving from Laverstock to Salisbury in a pony carriage, with his daughter's governess, his daughter following behind on a pony. When near the iron bridge near Laverstock he saw three men standing in the road, and when he got up to them he called out "take care," that they might get out of the way of the carriage; and one of them rushed at him like a maniac and struck him. That person was the Marquis Townshend. He struck him over the head with what he thought was a bludgeon. He struck him about three times while he was in the carriage. He was quite unprepared for such an assault. As far as he could remember from the confusion, Colonel Nepean had hold of the horse's head while the blows were being struck and the other defendant was on the near side of the carriage. Before he got out of the carriage the marquis said "is that enough for you?" If it was not a bludgeon that was used it must have been the butt end of a whip. After the blows were struck he got out of the carriage towards his assailant, and again received several blows, the words "is that enough for you?" being uttered. Witness asked, "Who are you?" but the assailant made no reply. The blows were given as hard as defendant could give them. He was also hit on the cheek, which was cut open by the blow. He afterwards asked the man Ellis who were his assailants, and he refused to tell him. He had not the least idea himself who they were, but he thought they were lunatics. Indeed he subsequently went to Dr. Manning, and asked him if any of his patients were loose.—Cross-examined: Witness said he was not seriously injured. In 1872 he was a constant visitor at the house of the Marquis Townshend.—Mr. Powning objected. He thought matters occurring nine years ago had no relevancy to the present case.—Mr. Tattock said he wished to adduce matter in mitigation of the offence.—Mr. Powning said he should advise his client not to answer a single question. After a lapse of nine years it was absurd to urge the plea that the assault was committed in hot blood.—The Bench, however, ruled that the questions might be asked.—Mr. Tattock (to witness): You were a visitor in the Marquis Townshend's house in 1872, and took advantage of the opportunity to elope with his wife. What happened in 1872 is perfectly well-known. But did you do so?—Yes.—Have you from that day to this met the Marquis Townshend?—Never. You got one beating at the time, didn't you—I was assaulted by two men. Lord Macduff was one of them. I did not prosecute him as it happened abroad.—In re-examination, witness stated that Colonel Nepean and Mr. Ellis, when he appealed to them to prevent the assault, did nothing.—The Bench: Has Lord Townshend taken any proceedings against you in the Divorce Court?—Not to my knowledge.—Mary Trender Chervet, governess to Lord Edward Thynnes daughter said she was in the carriage with Lord Edward when the attack was made, and corroborated the evidence as to the assault. She appealed to Colonel Nepean and Mr. Ellis to stop the assault, but they did nothing. Colonel Nepean was close by the horses' head at the time. The Marquis Townshend appeared to hit Lord Edward as hard as he could.—Cross-examined: Witness thought Lord Townshend was a maniac, and struck him with the whip to keep him off herself.—Dr. Manning, medical practitioner at Laverstock, saw Lord Edward Thynne after the assault. He was very much agitated. His face was bruised and bleeding. His hand was bruised and his hat appeared to have been battered about. He subsequently drove on the road with Lord Edward Thynne and overtook the defendants. The Marquis Townshend said, "If we promise to go quietly to Salisbury may we do so without being handled?" and they all went back to Salisbury together. The blow which cut the cheek was a heavy blow.—This closed the case for the prosecution, and Mr. Powning on behalf of Lord Edward Thynne, asked for the defendants to be committed for trial for misdemeanour and common assault.—Mr. Tattock, for the defendants, said his clients wished that the case might be decided by a jury.—The magistrates retired for a short time, and, returning into the court, the chairman said they had made up their minds to commit all the defendants to the Quarter Sessions for trial.—The defendants, who reserved their defence, were then fully committed, being admitted to bail as before.

THE NEW ITALIAN MINISTRY.

ROME, June 2.

ON the members of the new Cabinet taking their seats at the Ministerial table this afternoon Signor Depretis said that he did not think it necessary to set forth a complete programme, for it would be no more than a repetition. He did not appear before them now glad with bright hopes, as when five years ago he announced a new Parliamentary era, but with the resignation of one who hastens to fulfil a duty. Impressed with the necessity for completing a great reform, which might be called the legacy of the great King Victor Emmanuel, he had been obliged to repeat to himself the exhortation of the Spartan mothers of "With it or upon it." By making good use of the time remaining he thought that it would not be difficult to finish that work, already well advanced, and for the completion of which the country waited. The electoral reforms constituted, therefore, the most important business the Parliament and the Government had before them. Speaking of the army, he said that all felt the necessity for devoting assiduous attention to it. The army estimates had within a brief period been increased from 165 to 180 millions, and now that the progress of Italy's finances and credit permitted of that great national requirement being more efficaciously provided for, he trusted Parliament would co-operate with the Ministers by approving a further increase, so that in a few years the ordinary army estimates would amount to about 200 millions, and all that was requisite for the defence of the country would be completed. This portion of the Prime Minister's statement was clearly intended to meet by anticipation the impending attacks on that subject. Referring to Italy's foreign relations, he said that the Government would endeavour to reconcile the duties incumbent upon them in international matters with those they owed the nation. Signor Arbib's interrogation on the condition of the army and the provisions necessary for it was referred onwards until the discussion on the definitive estimates of that department. Signor Mancini, Minister for Foreign Affairs, replying to Signor Massari, who asked for the publication of all documents since 1878 relating to the Tunisian question, expressed his surprise at such a demand being made upon him at the very moment he had entered office, and said he should be wanting in his duty, and would show himself unconscious of the grave responsibilities resting upon him, if he promised the publication of documents which he had not yet seen, and which required a minute examination.—Times.
